Multimedia Sources

- Multimedia sources include television programs, films, and various kinds of music/audio recordings.

- Because there are so many different formats and requirements for media sources based upon the type of source, please consult the following slides for specific templates.
Television Program (Live and Recorded)

- For a television program you watched live, use the words [Television series episode].

- For a recorded version of a television program, use the medium such as [Videotape, DVD, Blu-ray disc].

Motion Picture (Live and Recorded)

- For a motion picture you watched live, use the words [Motion picture]

- For a recorded version of a motion picture, use the medium such as [Videotape, DVD, Blu-ray disc].

If you can’t find details for television programs or films on your own, go to the Internet Movie Database, search for your program/film and look under “Full Cast and Crew.” This information generally appears immediately after the cast listing.
Music or Audio Recording

- Artist, A. A. or Group Name (year of recording). Title of song or specific recording. On Name of CD or album [Medium]. City of label (if any): Label.

What To Do if You Still Have Questions

If you still have questions, please stop by the Writing Lab (D120). We are here to help. The librarians in the Parkland College Library are also here to provide assistance. Thank you for your time today. Good luck with all of your writing projects.
