History of 508

In 1998, Congress amended the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 to require Federal agencies to make their electronic and information technology accessible to people with disabilities. Under Section 508, agencies must give disabled employees and members of the public access to information that is comparable to access available to others.

Section 508, Standards Refresh

On January 18, 2017 the ACCESS Board issued a final rule that updates accessibility requirements for information and communication technology (ICT) in the federal sector covered by Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act. The rules jointly updated and reorganized the Section 508 standards and Section 255 guidelines. The rule references LEVEL A and LEVEL AA Success Criteria and Conformance Requirements, and applies them not only to websites but also to electronic documents and software.

Parkland is currently working toward Level AA Conformance Requirements.
Why is this Important?

- Allows students greater access to content
- Fosters an environment of inclusiveness
- Many Students on this campus do not identify as having a disability, although they may have one
- It is the Law
