The

Young
Some are walking,

Some are riding,

Here they come

And some are flying

Some just gliding

Released after years of being kept in hiding

They’re climbing up the ladder rung by rung
Some with questions

Some decisions

Some with facts

And some with visions

Of a place to multiply without the use of divisions

To win a prize that no one's ever won
Some are laughing, some are crying

And some are doing, some are trying

Some are selling, some are buying

Some are living, some are dying

But demanding recognition one by one lized nursing courses.

Two days per week are spent working in a hospital under the supervision of doctors and nurses. Carle and Mercy hospitals in Urbana, and Jarmyn Hospital in Tuscola are cooperating with the Parkland program. First year students are working in maternity, dealing with delivery, post-partum recovery and the nursery. Second year students are receiving training in the emergency room intensive care unit, and as team leaders on the floor.

The program is very demanding, with many students unable to complete it. But those who do know that they are well-trained and will never be out of a job. Association President and second-year student Betsy Warren summed up her feelings about the program. "It's a difficult program, but you appreciate it being difficult because you recognize the enormity of your responsibility when you get out."

Representatives to Washington, D.C. wrote letters to Congressmen, and worked closely with the American Legion lobbies in Washington, D.C. The end result is now apparent. A Congressman in the state legislature has come up with the idea to save money. The state legislature convenes this week. The American Legion lobby in Springfield will inform the legislative body of the day it is proposed. He will also contact the various presidents of the local veterans association. Approximately 800 veterans are attending Parkland College. The majority of these 800 veterans are using the military scholarships which saves the veterans approximately $1200 over a four-year period.

This is $1200 that would normally come out of the Veteran's pocket. If you are fortunate enough to have the money we are quite sure that you could put the money to some other use.

We encourage you to be informed and concerned about this era's meeting on April 23, 1970. This meeting will be held from 1 to 2 p.m. in room M14.

If you are not available to attend this meeting, please contact Tom Kral at 392-4936 or Dave Shaffer at 356-5453.

Jerry is willingly pulled into Pookie's energetic sphere during the ensuing weekends as they escape together from all the college weirdos into the beautifully filmable New England countryside. Jerry has his own contagious individuality. The Sterile Cuckoo is a sad little story. One can't help but feel that it is a true portrayal of the world as it is or ever was. The naivete of the main character, the mailman, is expressed in her desire to attain fulfillment in a world made up of prescribed social roles.

STERILE CUCKOO

A Sad Little Story

by TOM SUMMERS

"The Sterile Cuckoo" is a potent blend of joy and pathos; the exuberant struggle of a wonderfully alive human personality to affirm itself against the realization of the inevitable.

Pookie Adams, nimbly and bravely, battles the bland unassimilable bus trip from college. Poor life he has been leading along in the mediocrities. Unhappy into Pookie, he is kind of nice, forgivable. Heads straight into the harness American suburbia.

Pookie is one contagious individual, infecting the people with their own reality. More often than not the lies they out social interests. The quick to inform world is full of unthinking, unfeeling, who embrace conforming to the anonymous herd, and have no perception of their human uniqueness.
